

HER LETTER.

A small, sweet-scented square of white, An artless, artful, witching sight, I know what turks behind the seal, And yet, somehow, I seem to feel As if each letter must reveal Someglad surprise.

I pause to think just when she wrote: The office, date and stamp I note. And atiff address If I should judge from those prim lines How much of sweetness it enshrines I'd never find me colder signs, I must confess.

But well her bonny hand, I know No other message could bestow Than tender only. Mayhap she wrote in that old nook, here oft in sunny hours she took Some magnaine or recent book, And cheered me lonely.

These lines her little hand ran o'er; Her dream-blue eyes ran on before; And here, I think, She kissed the letter thrice for me Dear little girl of mine, I see Her sweet face bending lovingly So softly pink.

Well! well! I break the seal at last, No thinking of a happy past Makes present better. I read the words of love within— Some day another man will win, (A younger, better paladin) Just such a letter.

Here's to his health. My friends, fill up Of wine one glowing, sparkling cup; Or, crystal water; May this dear girl her pure heart plight To one whose virtues gat him hight, "A veray parfit, gentil knight"— For she's my daughter. Edgar J. Brenner, in Detroit Free Fress.
